Russia as Employer
Mr. Coolidge Amazed
England Cuts Wages
Too Many Killings

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

COMMUNISM is easy, the art is difficult, as the French say. Russia working on a five-year plan begins to realize it.

Communism thought all the evil was with the employers, all high wages with the workers.

But at present Russia, an empire on a gigantic scale, faces gigantic difficulties, and realizes that the material proletarian is not 100 per cent perfect or desirable.

Russia has been obliged to pay higher wages for better work, giving up the theory that all men are equal which they are not.

At the end of the five-year program which may be a success, although Wall Street has been "holding its breath" hoping it wouldn't, future readers will know many interesting problems.

If the government succeeds in making an industrial nation of a population of 200,000 Russian villages and 100,000,000 Russian farmers, Russia will grow gigantically and the leaders will change their views as they do everywhere as the money flows in and out of banks.

CALVIN COOLIDGE, sitting with finger on the pulse of the world, tells readers of newspapers that he is amazed at the amount of money actually existing. He notes that tax returns revealed an annual income of "over one hundred and seventy billions of dollars." This is "beyond human comprehension" and he invites you to figure that 4,000,000 individuals, 300,000 corporations, report incomes, and 30,000,000 Americans "gainfully employed" don't pay any income tax.

Mr. Coolidge says it is fallacy to say that the government "can be supported by taxing the rich." However, it IS supported by taxing the rich—that is, by those that have the money to pay.

And the 36,000,000 little incomes are quite content to have it that way.

BY AN AGREEMENT with railway workers in England, wages of 1,500,000 have been reduced 4 1-6 per cent with the proviso that no adult male will be paid less than 40 shillings—$10—a week.

Conditions may seem to compel such reduction, but it will not help England. The prosperity of a nation and its rich men, depends on the earning and spending power of the mass of workers.

THERE IS TOO MUCH crime in the nation. Consider the case of New York City, for instance. In 1930 police records show 498 murders including 37 killed by police discharging their duty.

Sixteen husbands killed their wives; six wives killed their husbands—great self-control comparatively on the part of wives. Of those killed, 316 were shot, 78 were stabbed, 58 were blackjacked or otherwise hammered to death, 10 strangled, two burned to death, three thrown from windows, 13 killed by gas, two drowned, one killed by acid throwing, 16 cases of infanticide.

EVERYTHING is easy from the side looking in. Britain's Labor party said, with perfect sincerity: "Give us power and we shall soon settle your unemployment problem. If we get the power, and they

STEEL CO. HEAD IS OPTIMISTIC OVER FUTURE

American Rolling Mills Executive Addresses Manufacturers Here.

85 AT DISTRICT MEETING

Depression Can Not Long Submerge Business Chapple Declares.

"American business can not long remain submerged by a period of depression." This is the optimistic statement of Bennett Chapple, vice president of the American Rolling Mills Co., made last night before members of the Manufacturers Association of Central Ohio at Hotel Harding.

The executive of the Middletown steel plant, one of the largest in the country, addressed the meeting here on "The Changing Tide in Business."

No Time for Pessimist

"This is no time for the pessimistic and disgruntled man in business," Chapple declared. "Even if we have been bitten in the leg by circumstances, that is no excuse for going mad. There never was a time in the history of the world that there was so much exhiliration in business.

"We have meen afflicted by the psychology of fear. What we need most is a return to common sense," he declared.

The advent of the corporation, new inventions, and style changes were listed by Chapple as the three important factors in the changing tide of business.

"With courage and perseverance, we are headed in a new direction, seeking the prosperity of tomorrow with new enthusiasm and ingenuity.

"The development of the corporation," Chapple continued, "was a changing tide. It replaced the old order of things and invested capital took the place of personal ownership. The public which fought trusts yesterday owns them today.

"Think of the changing tides of business caused by invention. Dozens of inventions changed old methods to new. Each one represented new business opportunities and was quickly seized upon

W.&J. STUDENTS VOTE TO CONCLUDE STRIKE

College President Reiterates Refusal To Accede to Resignation Demands.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 19—Students of Washington & Jefferson college were pledged today by resolution of fraternity and other campus organization representatives to bring to an end tomorrow the walkout started yesterday in protest of the regime of President Simon S. Baker.

The point was made that no purpose would be served by prolonging the walkout inasmuch as it was not intended as an act of coercion.

Meanwhile, the man who has headed the institution since 1920 was at his desk in fulfillment of his emphatic declaration that he would not resign. President Baker denied that there was any foundation for the reported complaints, among them one that he discriminated unfavorably against college athletes whose records in recent years have leaned somewhat toward the "lost" column. The basketball team this season dropped 14 of its 15 games.

President Baker said the complaint was made that he was dictatorial in matters of attire but countered that such was an exaggerated outgrowth of his suggestion six years ago that the male students wear something more refined than hob-nail shoes and lumber-jack shirts.

Early last night at a meeting called by the student assembly, the vote favored non-attendance of classes until Monday. However, at another meeting later of group leaders, tomorrow was chosen for termination of the walkout.

Second Death Completes Ohio Family Tragedy

By International News Service.

MILLERSPORT, O., March 19—A family tragedy was complete here today with the death of George Pike, 55, who Tuesday night shot and killed his wife and then fired a bullet into his own brain.

Pike died at Lancaster hospital late yesterday of wounds he inflicted upon himself with a rifle, after having slain his wife at their farm home near here with a shotgun.

MURDER SUITE GETS NEW TENANT

Mrs. Harry Herdman and her four-year-old grandson, Ralph Herdman Jr., said to be formerly of Marion, today established a residence in suite No. 4, 880 Parkwood Drive in Cleveland, according to an International News Service dispatch.

Suite No. 4 is the apartment in which former Councilman William E. Potter was murdered last Feb. 3,, police say.

Mrs. Herdman rented the suite without knowing it had been the scene of Cleveland's most sensational murder mystery in many years, it was said.

"Of course, it doesn't make any difference, because the suite didn't have anything to do with it and I'm not afraid of ghosts," she said when she learned the history of the apartment.

Investigation today failed to disclose the former Marion address of Mrs. Herdman.

BOY WOUNDED BY PLAYMATE

LAD'S LEGS PARALYZED

Police Say Shooting on North Greenwood Street Purely Accidental.

William E. Butler, 16, of 496 East George street is in critical condition in City hospital today with a bullet wound accidentally inflicted by his playmate.

The seventh vertebra of his spine is pierced and a slug from a .45 calibre automatic pistol is lodged near his spine.

Although he is conscious, and able to tell how the shooting happened, little hope is held for his recovery. He is paralyzed from the waist down.

He was shot at the Thatcher home at 318 North Greenwood street shortly before 9 p. m. yesterday. The bullet came from a large army pistol flourished by his playmate, Joseph Thatcher, 13, while they were in an upstairs room of the house.

The boys had been playing downstairs just before the accident, and had gone to the upstairs room where Thatcher was to show his friend a book, police say.

Butler was rushed to the City hospital in the C. E. Curtis ambulance. No effort was made to remove the bullet, which was located by an X-ray picture.

Police investigated the shooting, and reported it was purely accidental.

CRACK NAVAL PILOT LOST IN COLOMBIA

Fear for Safety of Missing Flier; Disappeared Early Tuesday.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19 — From the air, sea and land sharp-eyed searchers today looked for a flier who disappeared while taking part in naval war games off the Colombian coast.

Officials here said the search would continue until chief aviation pilot Verne Warren Harshaman was found or hope abandoned. The navy learned last night no trace of the flier or his land plane had been found since he flew into heavy clouds 4,000 feet above the sea Tuesday morning.

Admiral Jehu V. Chase reported "it is possible but not probable that the pilot has landed ashore and may not be heard from for an indefinite time."

Fliers here expressed doubt Harshaman's plane would have remained afloat so many hours if he had been forced to alight at sea. Numerous ships closely watched the surface of the ocean over an area of nearly 3,000 square miles. When last sighted he had only enough gasoline for about two more hours in the air.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT IN WOMAN'S TRIAL

Former Cardington Bank Employe Acquitted of Embezzlement Charge.

COURTROOM IS CROWDED

Jurors Deliberate About One Hour in Mrs. Rhineberger's Case.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, March 19—After deliberating approximately an hour the jury returned a verdict for the defendant in the trial of Mrs. Blanche Rhineberger at about 1:30 p. m. today. The case was placed in the hands of the jurors shortly before noon today after which the jury recessed for lunch.

Mrs. Rhineberger, former bookkeeper of the Cardington Citizens' bank, was charged with the embezzlement of $100 on Aug. 15, 1930. Another indictment charging her with issuing an illegal certificate of deposit for $250 still is pending.

This morning's session was given over to arguments by Attorneys Benjamin Olds and Former Common Pleas Judge C. H. Wood

The defense rested its case at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday after calling 21 witnesses to the stand. The majority of those testifying for the defense were character witnesses while a number of others gave testimony in an apparent attempt to discredit the testimony of E. M. Willets cashier of the bank.

Hundreds of spectators thronged to the courthouse Wednesday the majority of them carrying lunches and staying throughout the day. Many of the curious were turned away at the doors after the courtroom was filled.

After the defense rested P. H. Wieland, special assistant prosecuting attorney, made the opening argument for the state, reviewing the evidence presented. He was followed by T. B. Mateer delivering the opening argument for the defense. Mateer continued his attack [illegible] in his argument.

Judge Vaughan sat 1 p. m. today as the time for hearing the case of Melvin Hawkins, Bucyrus high school senior, indicted by the January grand jury on charges of wounding George Price last fall.

Hawkins, it is charged, shot Price with a 22-calibre rifle when the latter was said to be attempting to set traps on the Hawkins farm. Twenty-one witnesses have been called for the case.

Lowly Bean to Become Exalted at Soup Dinner

THE lowly bean is to be exalted. And all for a good cause, too.

A group of Marion citizens will turn restaurateurs for a day on April 1 and the entire bill of fare offered will be bean soup. Not that bean soup is unusual but when it costs 50 cents a bowl, with the number of beans not guaranteed, the common bean takes a place with caviar, frog legs and other delicacies.

Proceeds from the dinner are to be turned over to the Family Welfare society for operating expenses for another month after the grip of winter is broken.

BACKERS of the movement to feed thousands of beans to Marion citizens on April 1 hope to raise $1,000 on their venture. Proceeds will be clear as supplies for the dinner are to be donated.

The Elks club dining room will be the scene of the dinners. Two are to be given, at noon and at night.

Tickets are now on sale at the Smart & Waddell East Center street store, the C. E. Curtis funeral home, Anthony laundry, the Y. M. C. A., and the McDaniel Motor Co.

C. E. Curtis is chairman of the group of citizens sponsoring the dinners. Members of the group are F. E. Guthery, Homer Waddell, M. L. McDaniel, E. N. Hale, Elmer J. Schoenlaub, Charles W. Kramer, Roscoe Mezger, Wilbur H. Symes, Miss Alice Hane, Michael O'Brien, Dr. C. W. Sawyer, S. G. Rosenberg, and Mrs. J. T. McNamara.

HOUSE COMMITTEE KILLS SCHOOL BILL

Proposed Law To Abolish County Superintendent's Office Not Approved.

The newly formed association of township school board members, including representatives of Marion county township boards, apparently will get no help from this session of the Ohio general assembly in its efforts to oppose the supervision of Ohio's rural schools by county superintendents.

This was indicated last night when the schools committee of the house meeting in Columbus, killed the widely discussed Petitt bill, providing for the abolition of the county superintendent system, according to Associated Press dispatches from Columbus. This bill probably was more widely discussed in Marion county than any other measure to come before the legislature this year.

Action Postponed

Speakers from Marion county lined up on both sides when the bill came up for hearing. At the close of the hearing, which was attended by several hundred persons, the committee indefinitely postponed action on the measure.

Louis Sickel, an official of the Marion County Taxpayers' association was among the speakers to support Petitt's measure. He, with Petitt, asserted they had no quarrel with the superintendents, but felt that their function was unnecessary and that they were costing the farmers $750,000 a year.

NOTED ITALIAN FLIERS DIE AS PLANE FALLS

Two Former Record Holders and Companions Fall into Sea.

By The Associated Press.

ROME, March 19 — Umberto Maddalena, famous Italian flier and finder of the dirigible Italia survivors, Lieutenant Fausto Cecconi and Mechanic-Sergeant Damonte were killed today when their seaplane fell into the sea.

Maddalena discovered General Umberto Nobile and a group of other survivors of the Italia in 1928 near Spitzbergen and dropped medicine and supplies to them on the ice after the Italian airship had been wrecked on its north pole flight.

He and Lieutenant Cecconi formerly held world air records for distance and duration flights and both had recently returned from the Latin-American flight of air minister Italo Balbo.

Their seaplane was flying at a height of 1,500 feet and about 900 feet offshore today when observers saw it dive suddenly and break toward the surface of the water.

Two hundred feet above the sea, one of the three fliers was seen to detach himself from the plane and plunge out with a parachute but he struck the water with such speed that he met death with the others.

PRESIDENT LEAVES FOR VACATION TRIP

Batteries Boom Salute as Warship with Hoover Aboard Starts for Caribbean.

By The Associated Press.

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., March 19 — As batteries boomed from ship and shore, the battleship Arizona steamed out toward the Virginia Capes and the sea this morning carrying President Hoover to America's island possessions in the Caribbean.

The recently remodeled dreadnaught, the navy's most modern fighting craft, will carry the President and his party through 3,000 miles of the Caribbean to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Arriving by train this morning from Washington, members of the presidential party breakfasted aboard their cars and were motored to the dock in army automobiles.

As they reached the embarking point, the warship was but dimly visible through the early morning mists, although less than a mile off shore. The President boarded an admiral's barge and as the craft shoved off, the President's flag was run up the main truck of the Arizona.

ERIE RAILROAD MAY SHIFT N. Y. OFFICES

Company Contemplates Centralization of Executive Posts in Cleveland.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 19—Transfer of the Erie railroad's executive offices from New York to Cleveland, where headquarters of the other Van Sweringen lines are situated, is contemplated, it was said here today.

Such a move, it was pointed out, would not only be a logical centralization, but would facilitate consolidation of the Erie with other roads allocated to the Chesapeake & Ohio Nickel Plate system. The change probably would affect all important departments of the road, although a large traffic division would be maintained here.

Delaware Building Destroyed by Flames

DELAWARE, O., March 19—A two-story brick building was burned here today, with an estimated loss of $35,000. The building was occupied by the Sarano drug store, which suffered most damage, a furniture store, and the office of Attorney H. B. House.

AID ARRIVES FOR REFUGEES

Ship Crews Pound Way Through Ice Barrier To Reach Survivors.

By The Associated Press

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 19—Food and medical assistance today were landed on Horse island, where more than 100 survivors of the wrecked sealing steamer Viking were sheltered radio advices received here reported.

The landing was effected by the united efforts of the crews of seven sealing ships, which for many hours had been pounding the ice in an effort to make a way for the rescue ship Sagona.

Wireless Operator C. King is suffering from gangrene in his legs and Navigator W. Kennedy is ill with pneumonia, wireless reports added. The remainder of the survivors were in "fairly good condition" reports indicated

They had been subsisting on a scant ration of bread and tea and many of the Viking's company, including Captain Abram Kean, Jr., were suffering for want of medical attention

Although the most pressing task was succor of the beleaguered survivors on the inland search for the missing continued.

The best available figures indicated that there were still 18 unaccounted for, including Varick Frissell, New York motion picture producer and his cameraman, A. G. Penrod

The tally stood: survivors on the island 118; survivors on rescue ships 6; bodies recovered 2; unaccounted for 18; making 144, the

Sizing 'Em Up

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., March 19—Right in the midst of all this depression and starvation, why one old boy hasn't had it so bad. He has been measuring 6,000 college girls.

He compares 'em with co-eds 50 years ago. I didn't know any one ever thought of measuring one 50 years ago, and from what our elderly women led us to believe, we didn't think they would have allowed it.

Well, this fellow finds that the present ones are higher, wider, and thicker (he don't say if it's head or body), and these he says have more lung capacity. Well we knew that.

Maybe, because of the strenuous life at a female college, the parents only pick out the big dumb ones

TROOPS STAND BY TO PREVENT NEW UPRISING

Strict Watch Maintained as Resentment Smoulders Among Convicts.

PRISONERS ARE ORDERLY

Usual Routine Goes on Within Walls; Guards Concealed at Strategic Posts.

By The Associated Press

JOLIET, Ill., March 19—Officials ruled Illinois' two state prisons with a hand of iron today to prevent a repetition of yesterday's riot in which five buildings at Stateville penitentiary were burned by some of the 1,800 milling prisoners, three of whom were wounded, one fatally, before the insurrection could be put down.

Warned that the smoldering resentment of the convicts might flare into a new uprising in the older of the two prisons, penitentiary authorities posted extra guards in the dining room to halt the development of any further plot. They had the support of the state government at Springfield which indicated the slogan for discipline would be "more guns and less talk."

Formidable Guard on Hand

In addition to 200 national guardsmen a like number of state highway police, under command of their chief, Walter Moody, were on duty to stop any disturbance like that of yesterday when property damage estimated at $300,000 was done and three guards were beaten.

Any further disturbance, which the authorities believed might have developed at breakfast time at the old prison, was believed by them to have been averted by the show of arms of the guardsmen, two companies of whom lined up at the prison gate to give newspaper photographers a chance to get their pictures. While they were standing at attention a group of state highway police marched by. All of this was in plain sight of the prisoners from their cell windows.

While breakfast, consisting of oatmeal and bran, was served, two companies of militia and two policemen remained concealed about the prison yard and routine proceeded as usual. To all outward appearances 680 prisoners remaining comparatively at liberty in the old prison were marching and eating just as they always have done. The march into the old prison dining hall, while the officials had looked for trouble was orderly.

The dead prisoner, Raymond Barney, died early today. He was wounded, along with Edward Devaney and Michael Farrare, when they and hundreds of other convicts refused to obey immediately orders from the warden to return to their cells after the rioting had begun.

Overcrowding Blamed

Overcrowding in both prisons, which are separated by five miles, and resentment against parole board procedure, were blamed by Warden Henry C. Hill for yesterday's outbreak in Stateville. Other sparks which helped to touch off the revolt were the killing Feb. 22

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS LIVESTOCK T-B TEST

Refuses Farmers' Request for Injunction Against Forcible Application to Herds.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—Forcible application of the tuberculin test to livestock is not a violation of the constitutional rights of farmers, in the opinion of the Ohio supreme court.

Validity of the state law permitting the tests was questioned by four Butler county farmers who sought to enjoin officials of the department of agriculture from examining their herds for tuberculosis.

The farmers, Edward Ackhardt, John Donson, Henry Stribbs and Wirt A. Whipp claimed the test is unreliable and dangerous to the health of cattle. The supreme court held however that no debatable constitutional question had been raised and refused to grant an injunction.

Christ's Coming Near, Miss Pankhurst Says

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—Miss Christabel Pankhurst, daughter of Emmeline Pankhurst, noted British militant suffragist of the last generation, believes the second coming of Christ is at hand.

She is confident it will occur in her lifetime—that she will actually see him.

Her faith, she said today, is base don the fulfulment of prophecies first uttered by Moses and reiterated throughout the Bible to the end of Revelations.

Miss Pankhurst does not hold with those who believe the reappearance will mean the end of the world, but she expects it to be dramatic enough so that there can be no doubt of his identity.

PHILLIES SLATED FOR TAIL-END POSITION

PITCHING CORPS OF CLUB NOT UP TO PAR

Heavy Hitters Grace Lineup, but Hurling Staff Needs Much Bolstering.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 19—The sad plight of the Philadelphia Natinnals will be sadder unless Burt Shotton finds a quick cure for the club's pitching aches and pains.

Medicore mound work by all save Phil Collins wrecked the bright prospects of this colorful hard-hitting club a year ago. Picked to finish no worse than fifth, the Phillies skidded to last place. As a result Shotton has been forced to tear the team apart and face the 1931 season with distinctly dubious prospects.

Klein Leads Sluggers

Headed by Chuck Klein, the brilliant outfielder who hit .386 last season, Philadelphia's sluggers include Pinkey Whitney, Don Hurst, 210-pound Virgil Davis, No. 1 backstop; and "Buzz" Arlett, the elderly and portly "rookie" who hits 'em high, wide and handsome.

On paper, at least, Shotton has gone far toward solving his pitching worries but an epidemic of minor ailments and sore arms has handicapped the flingers in camp. Chet Nichols, a promising right-hander, left for home after developing a lame shoulder. On top of this, Phil Collins, who won 16 games and lost 11 for a last place club, persists in holding out

Much is expected from the two men obtained from Brooklyn, Clise Dudley and jumbo Jim Elliott.

The most promising addition, otherwise, is Lil Stoner, former Detroit Tiger.

3 Rookie Hurlers

Shotton hopes to get at least one winner from three seasoned southpaw recruits—Stewart Bolen, Hal Wiltse and Ben Shields.

In addition to Collins, the club has pitching holdovers in Ray Benge, Hal Elliott and John Milligan.

The infield appears strengthened by the addition of Dick Bartell, fleet ex-Pirate, at shortstop. Whitney is a fixture at third, Don Hust at first and Barney Friberg slated to play second base.

Klein's holdout tactics compelled considerable juggling in the outfield. Hal Lee, obtained from Brooklyn, appears to have clinched one position. Klein may be shifted from right field to make room for the heavy-hitting Arlett. Fred Koster, a recruit, has shown great ground-covering ability in centerfield and is an ideal leadoff man because of his speed.

Behind the bat, Davis will have the aid of Harry McCurdy and George Rensa.

BOZINIS, ROBINSON IN SEMI-FINAL OF CARD

Jersey City Roughneck Making First Appearance Here Next Monday.

A rough and tumble bout which is expected to be plenty full of action will mark the semi-final of the wrestling show at the Steam Shovel gym Monday night.

In a 30-minute engagement, Nick Bozinis, the Jersey City roughneck, will tangle with Clyde Robinson of St. Louis. Bozinis will be making his first appearance in the Marion ring Monday night.

The Jersey City groaner can be compared to "Gentle John" Kilonis when it comes to considering style of action. He is the type that figures no wrestling match is complete unless it develops into a common brawl.

Of course it is necessary to say but little on the part of Robinson. He is a big husky lad able to take care of himself, as he has shown in several goes here.

The Bozinis-Robinson action picture will precede the Jim Browning-Allan Eustace feature tilt. This main go is attracting considerable interest in view of the fact that Eustace has been promised a bout with John Pesek. If Browning can turn in a victory promoters may have to change their plans.

Two preliminary bouts are being arranged with Tom Temple of Marion and Roy Rhinehart taking the featured roles.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

ANOTHER pair of tough battles are in prospect for tonight on the Y. M. C. A. court as the four semi-final teams of the Y cage tournament clash in a pair of games which will determine which teams will fight it out on the twenty-fourth for the tourney championship.

First Reformed Sunday school of Marion will meet the fast stepping Green Camp outfit and the Martel Independents will tangle with the Marion city church champions, First Presbyterians. The first game is at 8:15 and the second at 9:00 o'clock.

Reformed, which eked out a one point win over Epworth M. E. in the first round game and then took an easy game from Company B in the second game figures to have its winning streak suddenly stopped tonight unless it improves in its play over the previous two games. Green Camp has a fast moving outfit and will rule the favorite over the Marion church team.

Martel Independents will go into the game with the Presbies as the underdog. Notwithstanding this the Independent organization is expected to put up a stiff argument. A Martel victory, although not expected, would be considered only a mild upset.

Both games should be well-played and hard-fought.

Tom Temple Marion's latest contribution to the world of wrestling shows promise, according to promoters, of developing into one of the best grapplers turned out locally in a long time. Temple is new and comparatively inexperienced but nevertheless has already turned in some good bouts on Marion and Columbus mats.

Since coming under the tutleage of Bennie Crisswell, promoter of the bi-weekly mat shows here, Temple has been matched with some good wrestlers and has given a first class account of himself every time. He has not won every match but has always made a good showing.

Temple is a clean cut individual, well proportioned and powerfully built. If he comes under a good trainer it wouldn't be surprising to see him accomplish something as a member of the Break It Off Club.

Temple will wrestle again in Marion next Monday night in a preliminary to the Allan Eustace-Jim Browning affair. He will meet Roy Rhinehart.

Cincinnati Simon Pures Start Glove Tournament

CINCINNATI, O., March 19—Out of forty-five Ohio State amateur fighters who entered the 1931 Ohio association A. A. U. district tournament here, twenty-seven remained today, ready for tonight's rounds of leather throwing which will determine those eligible to represent the district in the national junior meet at Boston in a few weeks.

Thirty-six simon pures met in the ring last night in the first round of eliminations.

BOROTRA ELIMINATES ANOTHER OPPONENT

French Star Appears Headed for Final Match with Frank Shields.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—Although two of the leading players of the national indoor tennis championships hav fallen by the wayside in the singles play, the outstanding stars, Jean Borotra of France and Frank Shields of New York, still appear to be headed for a final clash.

Borotra swept into the semi-final yesterday with his fourth straight set victory over Frank Bowden of New York. He is due today to face Perrine Rockafellow.

Shields had a day off before his quarter final match today with Pierre Landry of France, his first strong opponent of the tournament. The other quarter-final match in the lower half of the draw brings together Berkeley Bell of Dallas, Tex., third of the seeded American players, and Bill Aydelotte, who won the title in 1928, and who yesterday defeated Christian Boussus, young French star.

NO NEW RULES!

Baseball, Basketball Boards Discuss Sunday School Eligibility.

Despite a prolonged discussion last night in the Y. M. C. A. the rules committees of the baseball and basketball commissions, meeting in joint session, failed to adopt any new rules for church athletics here. The baseball commission will convene next Wednesday to continue the discussion of eligibility in church athletics here.

The meeting last night was held in an effort to work out some means of cooperation between the two athletic boards here for the better regulation of church athletics in Marion.

The Los Angeles Athletic club basketball five won 20 straight games this season.

CANTON M'KINLEY TO FACE TOUGH QUINTET

State Tourney Favorites Will Have Hard Battle in First Round.

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—McKinley High school, of Canton, rated as a strong contender for the schoolboy basketball championship of Ohio, will meet a fighting opponent in Hamilton High when the two schools clash in the first round of the state tournament here Friday.

McKinley high has one of the best records of any of the teams entered in the state meet and Hamilton has perhaps the poorest record, but records mean little to the representatives of the southwest district, which has produced more state champions than any other district.

Portsmouth Classy

Portsmouth, the classy championship team of the southeast district will have Toledo Waite as its opponent in the first round of the state basketball tournament.

On the strength of the records made by these two teams this season, Portsmouth is favored to advance to the second round. Portsmouth won 17 games and lost two during the present campaign, and Toledo Waite won 15 games and lost four.

Middletown and Zanesville were the only teams to upset the Ohio river lads. Waite was second in the Toledo city league race and then worked its way to the finals of the Findlay district tournament, where it was defeated by Lima Central 20 to 7. Incidentally Lima Central lost to Portsmouth this season.

Portsmouth, coached by Richard Hopkins, has been playing on court larger than the one upon which the state tournament games will be played. Therefore its style of play should be well adopted to its needs. Although not a big scoring aggregation, Portsmouth won the majority of its games by wide margins.

Finals Tonight in Glove Tourney at Cleveland

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 19 — Northeastern Ohio's eight representatives in the American Athletic union boxing championships next month will emerge from the finals of the Cleveland Plain Dealer's annual golden gloves tournament tonight.

Pallat knocked out Victor Barr of Canton, in the first round and will meet Ernie Young, Cleveland Negro, who got the decision over Al Getchell of Campbell.

OUT OF LEAGUE

Kenton High School Withdraws from Mid-Western Association.

KENTON, March 19—D. B. Metzger, principal of the Kenton High school, today announced that the school has withdrawn from the Mid-West Ohio Athletic League for the 1931 season.

The reason given was that the school was unable to get a satisfactory schedule due to the addition of Bluffton to the league, which made seven teams in the association instead of six, thereby not allowing home-and-home games with the schools natural rivals, Ada and Van Wert.

Kenton High school will have an independent schedule this year. Contracts have already been signed with Ada for a game there and one here; Toledo Waite has been signed for Christmas night; and Findlay and Marion have been signed for games at the Armory.

Other schools signed for out-of-town games are Lima Central, Bellefontaine and Urbana.

Growing Deaf With Head Noises? Try This.

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear catarrhal deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to Henney & Cooper or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¾ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to take. Anyone who is threatened with catarrhal deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

still have it, and unemployment is worse than ever.

Now MacDonald may form a coalition cabinet, with Lloyd George in charge of the unemployment riddle. To end unemployment is hard when you have more men than work, more goods than markets, more pessimists than enthusiasts.

But if anybody could do it Lloyd George probably is the man.

In the big war he supplied money as chancellor of the exchequer: then he supplied fighting material as minister of munitions, building ammunition factories miles long, not little ones.

And finally, as prime minister, with brains enough to put a Frenchman, Foch, in charge of all allied armies, he, Lloyd George, won the war more than any other man, with the possible exception of Clemenceau.

THE WARDEN of Joliet prison requested the removal of a prison chaplain, because "he fomented discontent among the convicts" and incidentally told them "what this prison needs is a hell of a riot." The prison had the riot yesterday, burning buildings and otherwise taking the alleged advice of the chaplain. It is unwise to be too sympathetic, even with criminals.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.—Adv.

How to gain NEW STRENGTH in the Spring

Colds, flu and sickness play havoc with the red-blood-cells and the body therefore has less resistance against further disease attacks!

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S.—the purely vegetable tonic—to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price saving. © S.S.S. Co.

BULLS FORCE MARKET HIGHER

Concerted Drive in Early Trading Causes Distinct Upward Trend.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—Bulls opened their heavy artillery in today's stock market for the first time this month.

Another vigorous drive against the bears in the first hour, however, the offensive was halted, and bulls were content to defend their new position. Trading was in large volume in the first hour, but slackened as the day wore on. General Motors was brought forward as a leader.

The market was still a professional affair, and in the main failed to show signs of breaking out of its recent trading range. The movement in stocks was in contrast to the sluggish action of the bond market.

The move in General Motors was accompanied by brokerage house gossip to the effect that the corporation would not earn its dividend in the first quarter, but expected the momentum which has been developed in March in carry well into the second quarter, so that net for the entire first half should easily cover dividends for that period.

Commodity price trends were mixed. The sugar market was notably firmer. On the other hand, bar silver reacted ⅝ of a cent.

Credit conditions were about stationary, although commercial paper rates were shaded a little.

WHEAT RETAINS STEADY TONE

Adverse Weather Reports Fail To React Against Grain Prices.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 19—Despite indications of rain or snow throughout the domestic winter and spring wheat areas, wheat displayed unusual steadiness early today. Millers' stocks in Europe were believed low, with the supplies at six continental ports showing 1,800,000 bushels decrease in the last four weeks. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent off, wheat afterwards held near the initial range. Corn started unchanged to ¼ lower and then kept firm.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Clock experts were puzzled when the new clock in the old state house here, which had kept time for a year with a variation of less than 10 seconds a month, persisted in stopping at night. Investigation revealed starlings roosted on the hands and stopped the movement.

NEW YORK—A large proportion of the fine wire in common use is made by drawing the metal through holes bored in diamonds. A single firm here keeps over 2,000 diamond dies on hand. The smallest is so minute that the aperture is not visible to the naked eye, even when held against the light.

A tool resembling an elongated brace and bit has been invented to bore holes in ground for setting out plants without requiring a man to bend his back.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Permission to sell a parcel of land 229 by 100 feet to Troop 27, Boy Scouts of America for $1, was granted in supreme court here to the chamber of commerce. Work on a building, which will serve as a meeting place for the scouts, has been started on the site.

Food Inspector Drives for Safe Milk Supply

Dr. J. T. Gruber Tests Dairy Herds for Bangs Disease, Source of Undulant Fever in Human Beings; Urges Use of Pasteurized Product Only.

Another step to insure the safety of the milk supply entering Marion of the milk supply entering Marion being taken by the city-county health department under the direction of Dr. J. T. Gruber, inspector of food and milk.

Blood testing of dairy herds for the presence of Bangs disease has been started by Dr. Gruber. To date 38 cows in four herds have been tested with two positive reactions to the disease found.

Gruber Makes Tests

Blood testing of herds is not compulsory, Dr. Gruber announced, but is being done at the request of operators of dairy farms interested in giving the best quality of milk to consumers. The tests are being made by Dr. Gruber without cost to herd owners.

The presence of Bangs disease in milk cows can cause what is known as undulant fever in the human body. The bacteria of the disease can be spread in several different ways. The most dangerous is through the drinking of raw milk. Other ways are through a direct contact with the disease or through the handling of meats.

Dr. Gruber is urging the consumption of safe milk only. He said the only really positive way of being certain that the milk supply is pure is to use the product which has been thoroughly pasteurized.

Practically all the milk sold in Marion is pasteurized. There are six pasteurization plants in the city under direct supervision of Dr. Gruber. Of some 3,000 gallons of milk sold in the city, approximately 35 gallons is raw milk, Dr. Gruber said. The milk inspector urged that all purchasers of raw milk use the pasteurization process. Milk is pasteurized by heating it at a temperature of from 142 to 145 degrees for 30 minutes. At this temperature all bacteria harmful to human beings is destroyed.

Symptoms of Disease

Undulant fever as its name implies is accompanied by feverish conditions similiar to typhoid. The fever is not steady, doctors say. It may be absent part of the day and the rest of the time be unusually high. The length of the attacks varies from six weeks to 18 months and quite often reappears after the patient is apparently cured.

Dr. Gruber urges the test as an economic as well as a health measure. He pointed out that herd owners are just as likely to contract undulant fever through contact with their cattle and the disease means a large financial loss through loss of time. Cows with Bangs disease do not produce as much milk as under normal conditions.

From an economic standpoint, the consumer of milk products faces a possible loss of time from work as a result of contracting undulant fever from unsafe milk, Gruber said.

Dr. Gruber advocates more widespread use of milk. But points out as a health measure that only milk perfectly pasteurized is free from bacteria which may cause disease.

To be a HEALTHY WOMAN watch your Bowels!

WHAT should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. It doesn't sicken or weaken you. But its action is thorough. It carries off the sour bile and poisonous waste. It does everything you want it to do. It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Give some to keep little bowels open during colds.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are billous or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all druggists keep it ready in big bottles) and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

The Stars Say—

For Friday, March 20

ALTHOUGH this is heralded as a particularly lively and interesting day, according to the prevailing planetary directions, yet there are auguries of uncertainty and complications. There is prospect of an upheaval or disintegrating experience of sudden nature, possibly attended by definite financial hazards. Change, rearrangements and new contracts are probable, but all call for precaution and sagacity, lest loss and danger accrue. Personal affairs are safer.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very lively year, with possible change or travel, but with suddenly upheaved conditions that may entail financial hazards. Shun speculative and untried ventures, and handle all new matters with precaution and discretion. Personal relations and activities are favored. A child born on this day may be clever, versatile and alert but disposed to be changeable, restless, utopian and fond of taking large and unprofitable chances. Its personal affiliations may bring pleasant and prosperous adventures.

DISABLED VETS MEET

WHEN YOU GET INDIGESTION

Here Is Safe, Speedy Relief

If you ever have gas, flatulence, uncomfortable "fullness" after meals, or your stomach burns after eating, don't just wait for the discomfort to pass off. Digestive trouble is nearly always due to excess acid in the stomach which interrupts digestion, ferments food, attacks the stomach lining and may in time be followed by dangerous stomach ulcers. You can avoid this danger and promptly relieve discomfort by taking a little "Bisurated" Magnesia—either powder or tablets—after meals or whenever pain is felt. Excess acid is instantly neutralized, fermentation stops, gas is dispersed, pain disappears and the sore inflamed stomach lining is soothed and strengthened. Indigestion, however mild, should never be ignored, and sufferers should follow the practice of thousands all over the world, by getting a sealed package of "Bisurated" Magnesia from Henney & Cooper or the nearest drug store. It means complete stomach ... freedom.—Adv.

2 REPUBLICANS TOSS HATS IN MAYOR RACE

W. C. Phillians and R. E. Prettyman Announce Candidacies for Office.

Pre-campaign political activity is getting an early start in Marion this year with two formidable hats already in the ring for Marion's highest public office—that of mayor.

The second of the two hats dropped into the arena today when W. C. Phillians of 709 East Center street announced his candidacy for nomination at the August primaries as the Republican entry in the November mayoralty race.

Prettyman In

The first hat coasted into the ring when R. E. Prettyman of 201 Orchard street recently tendered his resignation as chairman of the Republican executive committee here and announced he will be a candidate for mayor.

While Prettyman's entry has been more or less of a scheduled event since he withdrew from the primaries after announcing his candidacy for mayor two years ago, the appearance of Phillians' hat in the Republican foreground comes as a distinct surprise to most of his friends.

The outlines of several other hats are lurking near the edge of the ring, although their owners refuse to declare themselves. They belong to Mayor L. Don Jones, Democrat, Emery Murphy, Republican, and William D. Drake, Democrat. While the hats of both Jones and Drake seem destined to enter the ring, Murphy's fedora is not so definitely poised. He did not state, however, that he would not be a candidate.

Both in Council

The two avowed candidates have many things in common. Both are well known businessmen. Each has served as president of city council.

Both candidates stepped into the ring on request of their group of followers, they say. And both are Republicans. Their ages lie within the scope of the fifties. Phillians is the senior at 59. Prettyman is 51.

For 10 years Phillians has managed the store of the Richman Brothers Co. here. He was president of the council during the Buckley administration, and has been precinct committeeman in precinct E, sixth ward, for years.

Prior to his joining the Richman Co., he was for 26 years connected with the O. K. Dye house.

Prettyman has a comprehensive political background. He was elected councilman at large in 1928 and automatically became president of council when Mayor Hazen died. As councilman, he was chairman of the finance committee. Prior to his moving to Marion he was mayor of Agosta, for one term, a justice of peace, and for eight years postmaster. He was president of the Republican club here several years ago and has been active in local politics since moving here.

43 Years With Erie

William D. Drake, 60, of Fairground street, for 43 years an employe of the Erie Railroad, is possibly the least known of any prospective candidates. Although he will not declare himself, he is expected to enter the ring on the Democratic side if nothing happens to alter the present outlook.

As far as can be seen by the general public, Drake's only opposition on the political horizon is Mayor L. Don Jones who undoubtedly will ask for a second term. He, too, refuses to declare himself, at this time.

PRISON QUIET UNDER ARMED GUARDS' RULE

Strict Watch Maintained as Resentment Smoulders Among Convicts.

of three prisoners as they tried to escape from the old prison, and the rioting there last Saturday in which two prisoners were killed and two wounded. Another was the death of a prisoner in solitary confinement.

The rioting of the 1,800 convicts began in the Stateville chair factory, by a pre-arranged signal. All morning prisoners were holding up two fingers, which prison authorities learned afterward was their method of telling each other that the uprising was to start at 2 p. m. At that hour 180 convicts in the chair factory attacked three guards, lit torches of inflammable material and ran into the prison yard.

Almost simultaneously there was an outpouring of convicts from adjoining buildings. They applied torches to the laundry, the shoe and carpenter shop, the garage and the dining rooms, and then, under cover of smoke, assembled in the open yard. Efforts of the Rev. Eligius Weir, the Catholic chaplain, to stop the men only brought hoots and cries against the parole board.

Warden Jeered

Another chorus of jeers greeted Warden Hill when he walked, unarmed into the yard and ordered the convicts back to their cells. As he spoke armed guards gathered on the walls, but the prisoners stood their ground. At the warden's direction, two shots were fired over the convicts' heads, but still they refused to move. There was another order to disperse. This likewise was refused and the guards fired.

The shooting put an end to the affair and the prisoners hastened to their cells to escape tear bomb fumes. The prison gates then were opened and the Joliet fire department put down the flames.

The rule of sternness invoked by the officials included a bread and water diet at Stateville which they planned to keep in effect for 10 days. All except trusties will be kept in their cells until there is no further sign of trouble.

Two Chicago convicts, Albert and George Reinheart, sentenced on robbery charges, were said by Deputy Warden Frank Kness to be the ringleaders. Their conduct records as well as those of the other prisones were reduced to zero by Warden Hill. The latter won the praise of Col. Frank B. Tripp, state superintendent of prisons for his handling of the situation.

Leopold Transfer Prevented

The rioting prevented the transfer from the old to the Stateville prison of Nathan Leopold, co-slayer of Bobby Franks. He was on his way to Stateville with 29 other prisoners, when the outbreak began. He was taken back. Richard Loeb, who was sent to prison with Leopold for the Franks murder, is a prisoner in the Stateville prison. Like the old prison, officials estimate it is 40 per cent overcrowded. A new building is under construction.

PREPARES FOR FLIGHT

Bernt Balchen To Take Charge of Plane Assigned to Relief Trip.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Mass., March 19—A dozen mechanics worked in feverish haste today preparing an amphibian plane to penetrate the frozen wastes of northern New Foundland to bring succor to the languishing survivors of the wrecked Viking.

Meanwhile, Bernt Balchen, hero of the Byrd transatlantic and Antarctic flights, had retired to a local hotel after a night at the airport, to rest in preparation for the long flight which was expected to begin not later than midnight. Balchen was to be at the controls.

The expedition was being prepared by Merion Cooper, noted motion picture photographer, at the request of Dr. Lewis Frissell of New York, father of Varick Frissell. The plane will carry packages of medical supplies and food rations and pick up additional supplies at one of their stopping places enroute.

"RADIO CITY" STEEL ORDER SETS RECORD

Contract Specifies 125,000 Tons at Total Cost of 15 Million Dollars.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, March 19—A record contract for structural steel, calling for delivery of 125,000 tons to be used in the Rockefeller "radio city" in mid-Manhattan, has been signed, it was learned today.

Parties to the contract said the steel will cost approximately $15,000,000. Its manufacture and erection will furnish work for between 8,000 and 10,000 men for more than a year.

In addition, some 15,000 men will be given construction jobs during the three years it will take to build the radio center.

Delivery of the steel, which is to be fabricated by the American Bridge company, United States Steel subsidiary, is to begin in November.

The order calls for three times as much steel as in the Empire state building and two and one-half times as much as in the Washington bridge over the Hudson.

rector of education and a former mer Marion county school superintendent, and C. T. Guthrie, member of the Marion county school board, came to the support of the county superintendents.

Says Cost Low

Riegel declared that the proportion of taxation to maintain the county supervision system is but 40 cents a year on a 100-acre farm. In Marion county the superintendent's salary paid by the county amounts to only 80 cents on a tax valuation of $10,000 he said.

Ohio's rank among states in education has jumped from forty-second to first since 1914 when the new school code was passed and county supervision was begun, Riegel asserted.

In Marion county in recent months, the Marion County Taxpayers' association and the Ohio Tax Reduction league have agitated abolishment of the county superintendent's office in the school setup of the state.

Feb. 26 Meteor Believed to Have Fallen Near Here

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., March 19—The large meteor which was seen to burst in the sky Feb. 26, at 11:10 p. m., may have fallen in Ohio in the region between Marion and Mansfield, astronomers at Ohio Wesleyan university are led to believe as a result of information received in response to their recent request for observations from Ohio residents who noted the phenomenon.

Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, director of Perkins observatory at Ohio Wesleyan, is seeking further information on the appearance of this meteor. He has requested that any one who saw this brilliant shooting star on the evening in question to communicate directly to the observatory the approximate time when it was seen and the general direction in the sky of the meteor's path, that is whether it was east, south, north or west.

Meteors may be broken fragments of other worlds, it is thought, Dr. Stetson explains, and as they occasionally fall to earth they may bring to astronomers valuable information concerning the earth's surroundings in space. The actual location of the fall of a meteor may often be obtained from combining information furnished from different localities but a few miles apart.

Less than a year ago, the seventh Ohio district representative was arrested and fined for the same offense here.

Batteries Boom Salute as Ship with Hoover Aboard Starts for Caribbean.

High overhead, an army blimp and two fast pursuit planes circled the boarding party and as the President strode up the gangway, 21 huge bombers from Langley field droned out of the distant sky to join in the navy's welcome to the chief executive.

The planes continued flying in formation until four bells 8 o'clock —when the signal for the departure was given.

The presidential salute, 21 guns, boomed forth and was answered by the belching batteries of Fortress Monroe.

With the President were Secretaries Hurley and Wilbur, whose departments have supervision of the islands to be visited; Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries; Captain Joel Boone, White House physician; Captain Russell Train, naval aide; Colonel Campbell Hodges, military aide; and Mark Sullican, political writer. LAUGHTER FATAL

Outburst of Merriment Blamed for Ohio Woman's Death.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 19—Mrs. Ida Guzzie, aged 43, literally laughed herself to death last night. She died of heart disease shortly after a paroxysm of laughter during a round of merriment at a party.

Mrs. Guzzie, who had burst into laughter, again and again, became faint and was taken home by members of her family. Reaching home, she lay down on a bed and died soon afterward. She leaves a husband and four children.

Coroner M. E. Hayes was investigating the case today, but said that preliminary inquiry indicated the death was due to heart failure following the laughing spells.

Daily Proverb—"When a man repeats a promise again and again he means to fail you."

When all is said, why should Senator Norris seek to make the country suffer simply because of his discontent as the result of a thwarted presidential ambition?

A tobacco tax bill has been introduced in the Michigan state senate. Legislators are pretty much alike in one respect the land over. They shy at bringing intangibles out from their hiding places.

"Uncle" Hiram Johnson says the Republican party will make a mistake if it belittles the doings of the so-called "Progressive" conference. That isn't necessary. The country beat the G. O. P. to it and took the job off its hands.

The late Joseph Guffanti, New York City restauranteur, left an estate of $1,039,598, which all those who patronized his place down at the corner of Seventh avenue and Twenty-Sixth street will be willing to admit was the result of his willingness to provide a good, hearty, wholesome dinner for $1.25.

Reports received from all parts of the country by Chairman Woods, of the Hoover emergency committee, show improved employment conditions, and the best phase of the thing is that the reports were issued on actual conditions and not on estimates.

Penn State college announces a new process which takes the high explosive quality and the knocking out of gasoline. It's hard to think of a process for which there is greater call at present unless it would be one taking those qualities out of human nature.

Mayor Walker, of New York City, says that he is satisfied with his present position and is "not going into motion pictures—yet." Take our tip, James. It may be the course of disdom to grab a new job while the grabbing is good.

Charlie Chaplin entered Vienna unheralded, but within an hour the Viennese were as greatly enthused over his presence as were the citizens of Berlin. It really begins to look as though Charlie is destined to prove the world's popular idol, if he is not that already.

Idaho has passed a ninety-day divorce bill over the governor's veto. Let's see! Was not Idaho one of the states Mr. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, intimated to be of the "cheap skate" variety, even though the term used by him was "backward?"

Denominating it a blot on the state, the youngest member of the Tennessee house of representatives has introduced a bill to repeal the far-famed anti-evolution measure of that political division known as its "monkey" law. Isn't he treading upon dangerous ground?

Senator Morrow.

The last time Dwight W. Morrow went to London he commanded respect as an eminent financier and an able diplomat. The prominent part he assumed in drawing the terms of the London naval treaty still further established him in popular respect.

Now Mr. Morrow is in London again, this time with a new handle to his name. Downing Street now grants him additional deference as "The Senator from New Jersey." In England, in France, wherever he goes, he will be regarded with the special respect people reserve for high officials of government.

It is a reminder, in a way, that the annual foreign tourist season is at hand again, with its vast ramifications of trade and international relationships. Upwards of a million Americans will visit some foreign country during the coming year, two-thirds of them going to western Europe. Since 1900, with the exception of the years during the World war, Americans have spent more money on travel than any other people.

Gross expenditures by Americans who traveled abroad during 1929 has been estimated at $878,407,000. This sum represents, according to Secretary of Commerce Lamont, more than the entire excess of American commodity exports over commodity imports or sufficient to offset the American balance of trade.

The tremendous tourist traffic and the money expended by tourists have another influence, too, apart from effect on the balance of trade. That influence is manifest in international understanding—ranging all the way from the better understanding the state department hopes Senator Morrow and others like him will encourage, to the incomplete and muddled understanding various other tourists unintentionally create by tactlessness and boorishness. Stay-at-homes, anxious to promulgate international friendship and frequently disheartened by unflattering reports of their own neighbors abroad as well as the intollerant, testy attitudes of foreign visitors in this country, hardly can be blamed for wishing that there were more travelers like Senator Morrow.

Increasing Federal Expenditures.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, has offered a defense of America's first $10,000,000,000 congress. "The appropriations for the third session of the seventy-first congress just closed, instead of being characterized as extravagance and lack of necessity, have been granted only after the most searching and careful consideration," he says.

The senator demonstrates a keenness for balance in his insistence that due recognition be made of extraordinary expenditures necessitated by drought relief and expediting of federal building activities. Appropriations made specifically for extraordinary purposes amounted to $450,226,151, according to his estimate. Another extra item contributing to the $10,000,000,000 total was $174,651,331 for veterans' legislation passed too late in the second session to permit its appropriation being included in that session's expenditures.

The total appropriations made during the third session of the seventy-first congress, Senator Jones points out, were $5,180,107,522. Appropriations for the second session were $4,662,075,296, or $518,032,225 less than those for the third session. Senator Jones reasons that if appropriations for extraordinary purposes are subtracted from the third session appropriations no more than a "normal increase" is shown.

In his employment of the phrase "normal increase" lies the explanation for much of the criticism of mounting federal expenditures. A substantial body of opinion in congress seems wedded to the belief that the cost of government will rise each year, and an increasing body of opinion outside congress resents this attitude. In the words of Senator William J Harris, of Georgia:

"The huge and unheard-of expenditures and commitments by the last congress were greater than ever made by our own or any other country on earth in peace time. These obligations must be met with cold, hard cash. Our opportunities for meeting this huge obligation are nothing like as good as in previous years. We are face to face with the question of how we can reduce our national expenditures so as to keep step with diminishing receipts. Unless we do it, it will prevent any tax reduction during the next few years, and in all probability will leave us with a deficit and an issue of bonds. An increase in expenditures of the state, county and city governments is no excuse for extravagance of the federal government, but is all the more reason why congress should do everything possible to prevent waste as an exampl- to them."

Senator Harris has represented fairly the opinion of those citizens who refuse to believe governmental expenditures must be constantly increased to accommodate progress. There has to be a limit somewhere—and it is not far distant, the taxpayer hopes.

The New York senate committee on public education does not take kindly to a bill introduced by a Brooklyn member of the senate to bar drug stores from selling foodstuffs and operating lunch counters. Why should it? How would the public know drug stores were drug stores were they barred from featuring foodstuffs and lunch-counter services?

An international highway linking the United States and the Panama canal zone is being planned, but it's hard to see how it will prove of much personal interest to us hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs when we take our regular annual two weeks off "on pay."

Off for a Holiday.

President Hoover, will visit the Virgin islands and Porto Rico during the ten-day Caribbean cruise upon which he embarked today, when he went aboard the battleship, Arizona.

The residents of the Virgin islands, who do not see a president very often, have just been honored with their first civil government, ending thirteen years of naval rule starting when the islands were purchased from Denmark in 1917. In Mr. Hoover, they will welcome a president who has encouraged humanitarian colonial policies, and who has evinced a desire to look at their problems from their viewpoint. A similar situation will prevail in Porto Rico.

There is no disparagment in the statement that the President is killing two birds with one stone on his ten-day trip. He is taking a deserved rest away from Washington, and he is directing attention to his administration's creditable colonial policies.

Peeved over the refusal of the United States to sign the new pact, Paris reports that France hopes to scrap the London treaty in favor of a more comprehensive scheme for naval disarmament. It was to be feared that there was some string tied to the agreement.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, in leaving Washington for Chicago, expressed the hope that the mayoralty campaign in the latter city would be conducted on a level of decency, intimating that he has no use for methods which include asses as a part of the program. But what is to be done, senator, when primaries at times result in putting them on tickets?

"Motor Manufacturers Score Taxation for Equalizing Competition," reads a headline. Naturally. All of us are more or less selfish.

President Francis H. Sisson, of the Guaranty Trust company, of New York, asserted before a club gathering in that city, a few days ago, that the adoption of the loan bill was simply a purchase by members of congress of votes with the taxpayers' money. One may be morally certain that there is merit in the Sisson contention, but the drawback is that moral conviction and legal conviction are as far apart as the poles.

Dr. Arthur F. W. Ingram, bishop of London, a day or two ago characterized "weekend trips by unmarried couples" and companionate marriages "insiduous moral doctrines imported from America." If the good bishop will look up the facts, he may find the shoe on the other foot; at least, that moral rottenness, as shown by its court records, existed in London long before attempt was made to gloss it over with fine words on this side of the Atlantic.

Editorial Opinion.

PROGRESSIVE COWARDICE.

The conference of self-styled "Progressives" made much ado about economic issues, but, with a cowardliness not at all one of the characteristics of the great leader of progressive thought who led them through the only campaign in which they figured as a "third party," they steered away from the dominant social issue of the time.

Really, there is nothing new in the official pronouncement of the conference. All the issues dealt with are threadbare relics of the last congress. There was no need of a conference to reexploit them. What would have been truly informative was to declare their stand on the prohibition issue, which is dominantly before the country, and will be before the national conventions of both the great political parties. But the "Progressives" sidestepped it, evidently realizing that to have submitted it would have been to reveal a division in their own ranks as irreconcilable as that in the Democratic national committee.

That is where these self-styled reformers and leaders of progressive thought showed a lack of courage. They did not display that brand of courageous statesmanship the mass of the citizenship expects of men of those pretensions. They did agree on how to most annoy the administration when the newly-elected congress assembles. But they did not commend themselves for public acclaim or support when they dodged an issue of nationwide interest, the one so strongly emphasized by the Wickersham commission and the chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The "Progressives," as well as the Republicans and Democrats, may write what economic planks they please into their platforms. The temper of the electorate is such that the party which does not take a candid, practicable and courageous stand on this great social issue, will be out of luck in 1932. If the "Progressives" are not progressive enough to take a stand on it—if they have no solution of the national evils that have followed the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act—they might as well retire from the political stage with their handful of sectional complaints.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ANOTHER CANADIAN MINISTER.

By the appointment of Major W. D. Herridge as minister to Washington, the Canadian government shows how genuinely it values good relations with the United States. Major Herridge is more of an outstanding citizen than an outstanding politician, and has the added qualification of being one of the closest friends of Premier Bennett, of Canada. It is not difficult to draw the welcome inference that Mr. Bennett is not one who proposes to treat American relations in an offhand way. Major Herridge promises to continue the tradition so well begun by the first Canadian minister, Vincent Massey.

Not enough is thought or said about Canada, when one considers the importance of Canada to the United States. In Ottawa, the United States has capable and energetic representation in the person of Colonel Hanford MacNider. In a recent speech he declared that "the great outstanding fact is that now we know that the division of this continent between our two peoples was the best possible thing which could have happened for the future stability of the world. No single occupation of this continent could possibly have created such a bulwark of strength for the kind of government and for the institutions in which we both believe."

There is more truth in this remark than is generally realized. There is certainly no thought in this country that the present status could possibly be better than it is. The types of men who are representing their countries in Washington and Ottawa symbolize a sound understanding which is probably not surpassed by any two other national neighbors.—New York Herald Tribune.

THE LOCAL APPLICATION.

Editor Star—As you no doubt already know, the Secrest-Bostwick bill passed the house today by a vote of 118 to six, and I know the people of Marion county are interested in knowing how it will affect our treasuries.

When this bill becomes a law it will add almost $13,000 to the sum of money available to the county commissioners for the improvement and maintenance of our county roads; it will give to the township trustees just twice as much for use on our township roads as they now are receiving from this source; it will also increase by one-third the amount now apportioned to municipalities under the present plan of distribution, for improvement and maintenance of town and city streets.

I send you this information that you may in turn pass it on to your readers since I am sure they are all interested in the matter.

Regarding Back Pains.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Have you ever had a pain in the back and been told by a solicitous friend that you "must" have kidney trouble? This friend means no harm, of course, but in his effort to help you he is likely to recommend some worthless patent medicine.

Diseases of the kidney are common and often difficult to recognize However, in the past two decades great advances have been made in our knowledge of these diseases. No longer do we look with horror upon them. We need not be terrified if told we are facing Bright's disease.

Not so long ago, all diseases of the kidneys were spoken of as "Bright's disease." It was the general belief that no cure was to be had for the ailment.

But now the medical profession can adequately handle kidney disease. Great advances in certain laboratory tests enable the doctor to determine whether the kidneys are working as they should. It can be decided whether they are infected or diseased and just what the disease really is.

With the advances made in the use of the x-ray, the kidneys can be definitely outlined. Tumors of the kidney and other abnormalities now can be seen and studied.

No greater advances have been made in any other branch of surgery than in that dealing with the kidney. Where surgery is necessary, it is now applied with the minimum of risk to the patient. If the kidney requires certain changes because of some mechanical obstruction, these are undertaken by the surgeon. It is really remarkable what surgery is doing in these modern days.

Not by any means are pains in the back always due to kidney disease. Such pains, however, must be investigated. But, I beg of you, do not be influenced by advertisements dealing with "kidney remedies." If you suspect you have kidney disease, you should consult your physician. He will prescribe for you if you really have trouble, and advise you.

If there is a suspicion of kidney trouble, I warn you against home remedies or patent medicines. The health of the kidneys can be restored only by intelligent medical care in examination and treatment. Guess-work and mysterious drugs are of no value.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

B.R.D. Q—What do you advise besides vaseline for the eyebrows.

A—You might try applying one per cent. yellow oxide of mercury ointment every night.

B.B.B. Q—What causes psoriasis?

A—Faulty dieting is usually responsible for this condition. First, attention must be given the digestion. Constipation is an important factor, and, even though the bowels move daily, there may be sluggishness.

M.R. Q—How can I reduce? I have fat at the back of my neck and between the shoulders.

A—It might be advisable for you to consult a masseuse. Perhaps, with proper massage you may do away with your excess fat.

P.R.H. Q—My eyes have been bloodshot for the past year. What do you advise?

A—It would be advisable for you to consult an eye specialist. You may have eye strain or you may have conjunctivitis.

C.R. Q—What would you advise for a patient who, although examined and X-rayed for stomach trouble, will not follow the instructions which have been outlined for her case, and refuses to believe that her trouble is not due to some serious disease or ailment? She is nervous, irritable and troubled with chronic constipation.

A—She should be treated for neurasthenia. Proper elimination should do much toward improving her general condition and outlook. Careful diet and exercise will help toward this end.

A—No.

C.K.M. Q—What can be done for warts? What causes them?

A—For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

C.J. Q—What will make the hair grow?

A—Brush the hair daily and use a good tonic.

"DOLLY." Q—Is it dangerous to eat at the home of one who has cancer?

A—No.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc

The American Group Soul.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The United States of America is often called a new country, a young nation. This is scarcely true in the strict sense, for it is pointed out that it has the oldest written constitution, and the people are the heirs of all the ages, the melting-pot of all the races. Its culture is heterogeneous, derived from a thousand sources; and the nation itself was founded by peoples from beyond its own shores. But in a very real sense, this country is new. For it has not yet developed a national ethos—a philosophy, a soul, indisputably native, irredeemably American.

America, as we choose to call it, although even North America is not a correct term for the United States, is the world's most conspicuous democracy. The true ideal of a democracy has been properly defined by Claude Bragdon as the rule of a people by its demos, or group soul. Science expresses itself in many forms, but in none so conspicuously perhaps as in architecture, which is decisively the cynosure of all eyes. We may set up architecture as a touchstone for the genius of a people. Has science, in conjunction with art, wrought out in these states an architecture truly expressive of the group soul of the American people?

Unfortunately, the architecture of the past in this democracy has been something of everything, but nothing long enough to become fixed or truly representative. Power, mass, utility are found; a hopeless mixture of styles; imitativeness, subserviency to classic forms; and a certain tentativeness and timidity in expression indicating the gropings of the uncertain mind.

Mathematics, although not science in general, consistently teaches the beauty of structure. Symmetry, elegance, lucidity, form—all these are qualities of science in its higher teaches. Mathematics divests itself rigorously of the extraneous and the superfluous: nothing is used that is not germane to the process, organic in the structure.

There is a certain majesty and stark eloquence in skyscrapers: "granite deeps opening into granite deeps beyond range of vision, and mountains of masonry with seas of labor in turmoil at their base." Their geometry is simple, their bulk impressive; but they seem structures of sheer, hard necessity. They have the beauty of efficiency; but the soul is not there. They remain, as has been said, "monsters of the mere market."

A building, in the highest sense, is an organism: It has a life of its own, its own interior soul and rhythm. The form must express, both implicitly and explicitly, the function. And conversely the function must dictate, predetermine, the form. This country is developing an individual architecture. This will be realized when the architect is a true artist who can project, in structure, the meaning of American democracy.—Copyright, 1931, International Features Service, Inc.

Wayne, Terrible in War.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

It was a crushing defeat that General Anthony Wayne administered to the Indians at the battle on the Maumee, but not more severe than was necessary to bring them to terms, for as is now known, they deliberated for some time afterward before deciding to abandon the hope of driving the white man out.

They had strong support in the British agents in that district, and to check wavering chiefs, new equipment was issued them from the British fort at the falls. Simcoe, McKee and Brant, representing the British, advised the chiefs to simulate submission, ask for a truce ostensibly to prepare for a permanent treaty, but, pending that, to reorganize and prepare for a general attack on the Americans in the following spring. They suggested making overtures so strong that the Americans would disband their forces and make victory over them thus unprepared, easy.

They even went so far as to suggest to the chiefs that they make over their lands in trust to the British king in order that he might have a pretext for taking part in the proposed contest with the Americans. But the experiences of the chiefs with the British were not assuring, and the attitude of Wayne toward them in defeat appealed to their sense of fairness. They observed that Wayne could be as gentle in peace as he was terrible in war, and they turned away from the conniving British agents.

Early in December, following their defeat, a number of the principal chiefs arranged with Wayne to appear at Greenville to arrange a temporary agreement to stand until a general conference of all the chiefs could be arranged for with Wayne at his headquarters at Greenville in the coming midsummer, and this led to the signing of the treaty of Greenville, August 3, 1795, the most important compact ever made with the Ohio Indians.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, March 19—Fortunate Long Islanders, summering along the coast east of Fire island, are revealing at this late date the source of their most excellent liquor supply. It was the gift of a generous sea—so easily acquired it seems almost incredible.

In the mornings they merely sauntered down to their private beaches and found cases of Scotch, rye, cordials or whatever the waves tossed up. All of which is rather mystifying without explanation. Near Quogue a vigilant patrol against rum-running.

When a barkentine faced capture, overboard went its cargo with a despairing glug and in most instances was washed ashore. Finders became keepers. While the problem was never settled in court, marine lawyers say they know no way lucky finders could be prosecuted.

For miles the beach was a treasure trove. An actor is reputed to have salvaged enough liquor off his beach to fill two capacious cellars. Chemical tests showed that it was all the real stuff and not a bottle had been cut. A bootlegger offered him $75,000 for the lot.

A number of seaside homes in the area installed old-time bars for week-end festivals. Decorators were called in to touch off the taproom in the manner of the old saloon. Floors were sprinkled with sawdust and mirrors soaped with mid-Victorian curlicues.

A few featured bartenders with hair roached back into frozen wavelets, glittering paste diamond studs and walrus mustaches. Cash registers were arranged so that when punched they would announce: "This is on the house!" "Now we'll have another!" and other pleasantries.

In the Quogue vicinity, too, another Bradley sprung up. It was a country estate and offered a new idea in protection. Visitors entered through a serious of locked steel doors. All windows were barred. Thus in case of a inside stick up, not a person inside could escape.

Elinor Glynn has deserted New York and Hollywood temporarily for London. She has taken a town house for the season and is turning out a novel while entertaining her American friends. Chaplin the other day dropped around for oolong and crumpets proving that the novelist has entirely forgotten the comedian's famous quip at her expense. As the legend goes, they were at a Hollywood dance. Miss Glynn sent a note to Chaplin's table: "You do not look as funny as I thought Chaplin sent a reply reading: "Neither do you!"

While waiting in the lobby of the Empire theater a shabby, little man clutched my coat sleeve. He wanted twenty-five cents for a night's lodging and was plainly under the influence of liquor. Handing him a quarter I said with annoyance: "I don't know why I am giving this to you, but here it is." Pocketing it, he replied: "I don't know why I want to live, but I do." And he shuffled off. Somehow I was not able to get him out of my mind all evening.

Sitting a few seats away in the theater was the youthful Edna Wallace Hopper by her own admission past sixty. There was something vitally alive about her interest in the play and quick bird-like comments to a companion. It is a quality among nearly all past middle aged women who retain their youth—a merriment quality not concerned with cosmetic fol de rol.

Among women who have belied their years nearly all are of the stage. This inclines one to the belief that skin creams and lotions may play a big part in imparting a youthful look. But stage folk, too, are singularly free of the usual worries that ride most mortals to early graves. And if something isn't done pretty quick this thing is going to turn suddenly into a beauty column.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, March 19—Under the dome of the capitol there's a mail box to which come daily probably as curious an assortment of correspondence as could be found anywhere.

William Tyler Page, clerk of the house of representatives, receives it. Literally hundreds of communications from individuals in all parts of the world are deposited there. And it is up to him to see that each piece is disposed of in some fashion.

Just the other day, for example, Page took from his mail box an envelope addressed to "the government of the United States" in "the White House." Inside he found a tentative draft of a resolution "for the impeachment of any or all members of congress."

"I remember him well," says Page. "He is one of my regular correspondents." He has a half dozen or so.

The clerk treats them all—no matter how curious their requests may be—with amazing consideration, trying in each instance to refer them to appropriate agencies wherever possible.

Often this is impossible.

There's a man who sent in a poem he had written, requesting:

"If you do not agree, please hand the poem to one of the country's most reliable and reputed music publishing houses, and have them communicate with me"—in the West Indies.

And there is a 100-page document almost all written by hand, from an Armenian in San Francisco, who seeks $25,000 redress for an injury suffered when run down on the street.

"If you have a suffering of your own," the document besought the government, "how can I measure the depth of it and understand your real feelings?" The whole thing was composed in the language of the Orient's deep mysticism.

Many letters are in foreign languages. Most of the writers want something, but many merely speak their minds.

And Page regards his mail box as a good thing. He thinks of it as a sort of safety valve.

"It does them good to get it off their chest," he says. "And there is always the possibility that something can be done."

A man once sent him $30 with the request that a gun be purchased for him so that he could shoot some one. Page informed the congressman of the district, who got in touch with police officials and found the writer was dangerously demented.

Just recently he found in his small box a package resembling an infernal machine. Carefully he opened a letter inserted under the cord. It said that since the sender was unable to match his wits with congress in shooting the animal, he was sending it along.

Packed in sawdust, modeled with the greatest care and skill, reposed a little effigy of a charging bull.

SOAP BUSINESS GOOD, BUT STOCK IN TRADE SHORT

"It Pays To Advertise" Uses Big Business Methods in Operation.

PLENTY of orders for soap which they had nationally advertised but had forgotten to manufacture was the predicament in which Norman Foster and Skeets Gallagher found themselves in, "It Pays To Advertise," now showing at the Marion theater.

Foster, son of Eugene Pallette, a soap manufacturer, is lazy but high spirited and when he finds himself cast out and on his own he combines with Gallagher to go into the soap business as rivals of his father. His father, overjoyed because his son is going to work, pays Carole Lombard $5,000 to keep him at it for six months. They find that in business money must be had and for several months they have to pay bills by clever dodges and bluffs.

Finally the orders start to roll in and the would be manufacturers find themselves without soap. At first they buy it from Foster's father under assumed names and wrap it in their own wrappers. When he finds out he cancels all orders for soap and learns that they have turned to his rival, Lucien Littlefield, for soap. After much haranguing Pallette exposes Carole's part in the plot to keep Foster working but is forced to buy Norman and Skeets out. Norman asks Carole a certain question and the answer is "yes" so everybody is satisfied in the end.

An Aesop fable comedy, Pathe audio review and Fox Movietone help make an interesting program. The final showing of this picture will be tonight. H. S.

CHAPTER 16

Waye's "Walking Papers"

"W[illegible]—this lets us out," opined [illegible] James, as he scanned the [illegible]n that Dr. Charters had [illegible] 'No guy could do such [illegible]wn thing."

"I said," agreed Dr. Char[illegible] "And since we've treated him [illegible] I don't see why he should [illegible] squeal on us. 'Tisn't as [illegible] we were double-crossing [illegible] Why shouldn't he keep [illegible]h shut when he's giving [illegible]up voluntarily?"

"It goes," gloomed Mr. James. [illegible] else could he do? It [illegible]e unspeakable enough if [illegible] was an enemy . . . But [illegible] . . ."

[illegible] failed the good doctor.

[illegible] him yet?" inquired Mr.

[illegible] The swine's still at break[illegible]. We'll tell him what we [illegible] him, if he doesn't toe the [illegible] little mass-suggestion."

[illegible]rno about mess-suggestion," confessed Mr. James, "but I know [illegible] gang-discipline—and that's what he wants, the low-living [illegible] . . . And if he won't put [illegible] wise, we've got to do it for him. If he squeals on us, there are plenty here to swear that one of the bats in his belfry is that everybody's a crook."

"Pisky, Jimmy. Suppose some wise guy in Scotland Yark took him seriously, and started looking into things on the other side. We'd be mighty anxious for a bit. And the more we proved he was a lunatic, the more we should help him to cheat the gallows—and I want him dead..."

"Well—if he confessed, they'd hang him, all right, if it were shown that Sir Bernard Matthieson refused to certify him."

"And then he's sane enough for his tale—about us and Spider Schlitz and the gang—to be worth listening to, and acting upon. He's still got us . . . Unless he's also got the common honesty to go and take his medicine without squealing. Now they're pinched an innocent man, it's up to him to say, 'You've been good guys and I'm grateful. I am off to give myself up and take what's coming to me, with a shut mouth.' . . . Why not?"

"Guess he'll want to wait and see whether the innocent man is released. If they let the guy go again, all's well, and Waye lies low a bit longer—until this affair blows over...."

"Wonder if the police acted on that letter they found pinned on Spider's waistcoat? I call that pretty cool, to sit down alongside the stiff-'un you've just bumped off, and write a 'confession' with the full description of yourself — the murderer—with name and address complete."

"Is that what he did?" inquired Nurse Jones.

"According to the morning Star account of it," replied the doctor "But what was the game in describing some imaginary person and giving a bogus name and address as well?" asked Dr. MacAdoo

"Oh, dust your brains, Manoel," snapped the doctor. "If it put the police looking for a guy in Glasgow or Bristol, while you're making tracks for the Monastery, it's something to the good. Especially if they think they recognize the description of the imaginary person in the letter."

"Sure thing—if it was imaginary," observed Mr. James portentously.

The other four eyed him with bewilderment and horror.

"You don't mean to suggest he'd give the actual name of some innocent person?" said Dr. MacAdoo.

"I certainly do. And his proper name and address, too," growled Mr. James. "He's a real bad guy. Bump him off, I say."

Consternation settled on the faces of these reformed ladies and gentlemen.

"He's a walking mystery, and there's nobody I'd sooner see bumped off, if it were a little safer," said the doctor, at length, "but we've no call to think he's as bad as that, Jimmy. Nobody could do anything as bad as that. Why, if I thought that of him, I'd let you loose on him right now."

"Does the paper give the whole letter with the description and the name and address?" asked the matron

"No; the police would see to that, and it seems to be the only paper wise to the fact that the murderer had had the nerve to concoct his little 'confession,' or else his 'eye-witness' version,' for the benefit of the police"

"Once again, who is he?" inquired Nurse Jones.

"Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. Staff conference? The devoted friends-of-the-afflicted in council?" said a mocking voice, as Mr. Waye seated himself upon the low sill of the big window, and looked into the room.

"Ah, all present, I see—Half-hung Simon, Gunman Gryde, Manoel Machado, 'Frisco Fanny and Louie the Lady."

The dangerous men and women so addressed turned with one accord, and eyed the speaker with the cold and concentrated hostility of hate.

The doctor was the first to recover from his surprise.

"We were just talking about you," he said.

"And I was just going to send for you," continued the doctor.

"Now that's a coincidence, for I was just going to send for the whole bunch of you to receive my instructions Simon"

The knuckles of Dr. Charters' powerful hands gleamed white, as he clenched his fists, while the right hand of Mr. James strayed beneath his jacket in the direction of his hip-pocket.

"Well, suppose you get my instructions first," suggested the doctor, and his right hand came down with a heavy thud upon his desk. "Your game's up—and now you can clear out of here as quick as possible, and a damned sight quicker. We're through with you. . . . So go while the going's good, and think yourself lucky you get the chance."

To Be Continued.

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

End Your Piles Without Salves or Cutting

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation,, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city, that Henney & Cooper says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile agony or money back.—Adv.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

I WAS thinking about Banty when me and Jubilee woke up this morning, and wondering what he had a temperature for, and when I had let Jubilee down and had went down and milked the cows all the bunch was wondering how he was and which ones of us would be pulled barriers if he needed any. Hopper felt kinda bad about it, because he is our crip and walks with a crutch, so he can't be anybody's pulled barrier, and when I went in to strain the milk and feed my face the girls were there.

My mother told me to keep away from Banty for a whole, because he is threatened with scarlet fever. They put a glass thing in his mouth and if it turns red they know he has got scarlet fever. I asted my mother how long scarlet fever keeps a fella out of school and she said it might keep him out of school a month or more if it didn't keep him out forever. Banty is certainly a lucky runt. I asted my mother if men ever had it and was kept from working, and she said, "Yes, but that isn't what your unkle has got." Then everyone got so quiet I could hear my unkle chewing his pancake. But he didn't say anything.

On the way to school we all went over past Banty's. There is a red sign on the house, and we didn't see anybody, so all but the girls and the Lost Bag of Tripe snuck in the yard and went around the house and looked in the windows, and he was in the bed downstairs, and he saw us and waved to us, and then he got out of bed and came and opened the window and shook hands with us, and we told him to not put his head out or he might get worse. He said his legs wasn't sick at all, and he stuck one leg out of the window, and then he stuck the other out and stuck it to show us how well it was, and then he put his pillow on the floor and was standing on his head in it when his mother came in and his shirt had fell down over his face so he couldn't see how mad she was, he didn't know she was in the room, she seemed to be mad, I don't know what she done to him, because we have kept out of her way since that time.

We was [illegible] another [illegible] school, and [illegible] Banty and [illegible] we [illegible] us [illegible] [illegible]

"Isn't there anybody who can bring her to reason," Mr. Underwood inquired, "and tell her that it isn't always wise to humor temperamental geniuses in their jealousy?"

"If you will keep watch of the baby, I'll try my luck," I said quickly.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Marion's Attendance at the Brixton Party, Despite the "Chinese Menace."

LILLIAN was not the only one who was watching her husband as she wished to determine his reaction to her assertion that she needed some advice about Marion. From under my half-closed eyelids I also was watching him narrowly. But if there remained in his soul any vestige of remembrance or resentment for the cruel thrust concerning his "right" to criticize his stepdaughter which Lillian had given him, there was not the faintest sign of such feeling in his face or eyes.

"What's up now?" he asked with apparent carelessness. "Is Ronald coming in to ask my blessing? I think I'd be simply swell in a heavy father act."

It was exactly the right note, and I mentally applauded him as I saw the etched lines in Lillian's face relax. He had put her at her ease by the grotesqueries with which he so often purposely relieved the tensity of the situation.

"No, it isn't that bad yet," Lillian said, "although goodness knows it wouldn't surprise me to have Ronald spring anything at any time. I know you'll be surprised to learn that the Brixtons are giving another house party."

He threw his arms wide in stimulated astonishment.

"Say not so," he urged. "What's the number of this one this season? The 20th?"

"Something like that," Lillian assented. "This is the usual thing. Yale friends of Ronald's, a dance, a beach party and horseback rides."

"Distinctly worth doing at their age," her husband commented

Safest Place in the World

"Or any other," Lillian supplemented. "Of course, Marion's wild to go. What do you think about it? Is it safe to let her go up there?"

I doffed my best chapeau to Lillian right there. She never odes anything by halves, and the directness and deference which had accompanied her request to Harry went far within themselves. An apology and an acknowledgment which must have salved any possible hurt that remained from her former cavalier treatment.

"I hate to admit it," her husband said slowly, "for the Lord knows I do not particularly cotton to the older Brixtons—the youngsters are all right, they do not make them any better—but the Brixton home is probably the safest place in the world for Marion just now, that is if either Brixton or Owen are home"

"They both are," Lillian nodded "But I don't understand your point of view if, as we all believe, Brixton and Owen are the men behind the attempt to get hold of Marion's loose box. I should think it would be highly unsafe for her to go to any place where she would be in their power."

Mr. Underwood walked over to his wife and gravely patted her on the head "The old coffee mill isn't making so many revolutions to the second as usual," he told her, "else you would realize that those two birds wouldn't dare let anything happen to her, wouldn't dare even to let her get frightened or suspect anything while she was at their home."

"Yes," Lillian said thoughtfully "That's true. But what about the Heathen Chinese?"

"I think she'll be as safe there as she could possibly be here" returned Marion's stepfather, and I wondered if he weren't trying to "bend backward" in this matter of permitting her to visit the Brixtons, because of his unguarded speech regarding Marion's association with Carolyn Brixton

"In the first place," he said, "if I know Marion, she'll not move a single step alone without being escorted by Ronald and half at least, of any of the other Yale men around

"Secondly, we'll send a couple of operatives as near the Brixton place as they can get without their identity being suspected by the members of household. They will have special instructions to watch for any Chinese appearing in the neighborhood.

"Thirdly—Couldn't you manage it so that Mary could go along with her?"

"Mary is also invited," Lillian said quietly.

"I gather that Ronald no sooner thought of the party than he bought himself a special delivery stamp," Mr Underwood said with a chuckle.

"Your inference is eminently correct," Lillian said with a wry grin. "Why do you wish Mary to go with her?"

"Because, in the first place," Mr Underwood replied, "Mary is the keenest 'think tank' of any girl I know and though she's near enough Marion's age to be a mighty good pal for her, she's about a million years older in resourcefulness and ability to cope with emergencies.

"If you tip her off before she goes that Marion needs guarding," he continued, "you can crawl between the sheets every night that she's away with the assurance that the protection patrol is working overtime. But, is it a cinch that Mary is going?"

"I doubt it," Lillian answered.

"Why?" the question was like a revolver shot.

"Because, Mary feels that Noel would not like it," Lillian said, and there was something in her voice which told me that the feminist in her rebelled at this undue deference to masculine prejudices of one's fiancee.
